At Canton, the other afternoon, John McCurdy, a plasterer, aged thirty-five years, shot and killed his employer, L. T. Waltenbaugh. He made a similar but unsuccessful attempt on his wife and then blow out his own brains. McCurdy had charged his wife frequently with infidelity. Lately he became despondent and imagined that Waltenbaugh so placed his work that he could not interfere with their intrigue. Instead of going to work after dinner he hid near the house, and saw his employer enter. In a few moments, with a 32-caliber revolver in his hand, he crept to the cottage bedroom window. Hearing a voice inside, he broke in a light and fired. He then ran to the front door and shot down Waltenbaugh, who was escaping. Turning, the infuriated man pursued his fleeing wife and fired at her twice, striking her in the head, before neighbors interfered. Being satisfied with his work he returned to his yard, and by a shot in the temple ended his existence. Mrs. McCurdy up to last report was living and perfectly conscious. ## GUILLOTINED.

The Murderer of Baroness Delard Worked Off.

The Condemned Was Placed On the Sliding Board, Pushed Forward to the Block, the Knife Descended and the Head Drops Into the Basket.

PARIS, April 11.—Louis Anastay, the ex-sub-lieutenant who murdered his benefactress, the Baroness Delard, was executed in the Place de La Roquette at 5:10 Saturday morning. In accordance with the French custom the condemned man had no knowledge that he was to meet his death Saturday morning until the prison officials entered his cell and told him to prepare for execution. The guillotine was erected in the usual place directly in front of the jail.

Knowledge of the tragedy that would be enacted there this morning had reached the general public through the erection of the guillotine and the usual crowd of sight seers, composed mostly of the dregs of the city, were present to witness the fate of the condemned. Anastay walked to the guillotine without displaying any great amount of nervousness. In fact his bearing was firm. He was very pale, however, and it was apparent that he had stoled himself against the ordeal. He laughed as he reached the guillotine, but his laugh was caused by nervousness and not by any lack of appreciation of his awful position. Arrived at the place of death the preliminaries were quickly completed. Anastay embraced the chaplain who had administered the last rites of the church to him and bade him farewell.

Diebler ("Monsieur de Paris"), the executioner, met with not the slightest resistance from the prisoner, and the latter was soon bound and thrown upon the bascule, the sliding board which carries the culprit beneath the knife. In almost less time than it takes to write it Anastay was pushed forward until his neck rested upon the block beneath the razor-like blade suspended above him. There was a quick, whirling sound as the heavy knife dropped, and the head of the murderer dropped into the basket placed to receive it.

BRUTAL ROBBERS

Resort to Horrible Torture Upon Two Old People Who Refuse to Give Up Their Gold.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., April 11.—Two high-handed outrages, unparalleled in the crime annals of this community, were perpetrated here Saturday night. Three masked burglars entered the house of John Daly, an old soldier, to steal his pension money. They bound the feet and hands of the old man, tied him to a chair, and when he refused to tell them the whereabouts of his wealth, they tortured him by slowly stabbing him in the neck with a knife and holding a lighted lamp under his ear, burning that organ by inches, and the pain almost killed the old man. He would not tell them where the money was. They ransacked the house, chopping the floor open with a hatchet and tore the plaster off the walls to find Daly's treasury. They were unable to discover any booty, and departed, first knocking Daly senseless with a blow from a revolver. They next went to the home of Miss Olivia McDowell, an aged spinster, bound her in a blanket, gagged her and tied her to a bedpost. They only found six dollars in the house, and, disappointed, they also tortured the old woman to make her tell where she kept her money. A pen-knife was jabbed into her skull several times, and her left eye was closed by a blow from the butt end of a revolver. It is feared that she is permanently injured. There is no clew to the robbers. The people are loud in their denunciation of the police force to-day, and they will demand better protection.

A Curious Coincidence.

BALTIMORE, April 11.—Rev. James P. Wright was, on Friday, made presiding elder of Baltimore district M. E. Church, in place of Dr. J. J. G. Webster, who was killed by a fall from a hotel window at Charleston, W. Va. Early Sunday morning he was found unconscious in bed by his wife. He attended Dr. Webster's funeral Saturday, and was much affected during the evening, when conversing with his wife upon the sad end of his predecessor in the eldership. His condition is serious, but his recovery is expected.

Twenty Persons Known to be Drowned and the Loss of Life

Believed to Be Much Larger—A Colored Family and a Pig Rescued—The Pig Jumps Out of the Boat, Overturning It and Family Drowned.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11.—After five days of absolute isolation from the world, Columbus, Miss., got up a wire Sunday night, and though it is working badly enough, has come to show a horrible condition of affairs. The river has been nearly three feet higher than ever before, and the whole country is under water. Over twenty people have been drowned, as far as heard from, and it is feared the list will grow enormously when the wide territory can all be heard from. In one case a colored family of nine people and a pig were rescued, but the pig jumped out of the boat. The old woman made a grab for it and overturned the boat, and all the family were drowned, the rescuers narrowly escaping. Five hundred people are in the town and being fed on charity. An appeal has already been formulated to the general government for help. It not possible to get the names of the dead.

BOY CREMATED.

His Adopted Father, Driven Mad by His Fate, Desperately Attempts to Take His Life.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 11.—A horrible story comes from Midway, twenty miles up the river. The residence of James Hawley caught fire in some unexplained way, and owing to the entire absence of any means of fighting the flames, the house was burned to the ground. Mr. Hawley, his wife and her sister were in the second story asleep, and a ten-year-old adopted son, Joseph Linton, was asleep in the attic. The three grown people were awakened by the crackling of the burning timbers, and escaped through the windows with difficulty in their night clothes. The boy was burned to death.

When Mr. Hawley saw that he could not escape he became for the time a raving maniac, and looking about for some means of taking his own life, saw his hot-beds, and running in among them threw himself down on his face, and sought to cut his throat on the broken glass. He was removed from there, and while being led to a neighbor's he tried to spring into the burning building. This being also prevented, he dashed his head against a post standing beside the road in an effort to dash out his brains. He also dashed his head against the wheel of a heavy wagon, and made other insanely determined efforts to kill himself. His barn was burned by an incendiary fire some time ago and a lot of his stock poisoned, and it is believed the present fire was of incendiary origin.

BLAINE OUGHT TO KNOW.

But Despite His Denials Mr. Grace Declares Blaine Will Be a Candidate For President.

NEW YORK, April 11.—William H. Grace, of Brooklyn, reiterates the statement that he made a week ago, and which was published broadcast, to the effect that Secretary of State James G. Blaine had consented to be a candidate for president. This directly contradicts Mr. Blaine's latest statement, made on Friday, that he would not under any circumstances accept a nomination, inasmuch as his physical condition was such that he could not risk the strain upon the country's chief executive. Mr. Grace says that he had three talks with the secretary—on Friday, April 1, Monday, April 4 and Tuesday, April 5. He said Sunday that it was his firm conviction from what has passed at these interviews that while Mr. Blaine is loyal to President Harrison, and will not raise a finger to secure the nomination, he is a true American, and will unmistakably obey the call if it is made upon him by the Minneapolis convention.

NOT GUILTY.

Thus the Consular Court Sitting in Japan Pronounces Lieutenant Hetherington, Who Killed His Wife's Lover.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A cablegram was received at the Navy department from Commander J. R. Bartlett, United States steamship Marion, announcing the acquittal by the consular court at Yokohama, Japan, of Lieutenant J. H. Hetherington, U. S. N., of the murder of Mr. Gower Robinson. This action is final and Hetherington can not again be tried for the same crime in any other court. It will be recalled that Mr. Robinson was a wealthy Englishman, and was, after repeated warnings, killed by Lieut. Hetherington about two months ago, for being too attentive to the latter's wife, formerly of Wilmington, Del. The news of Hetherington's acquittal was received with marked evidences of satisfaction in naval circles.

Indiana's Direct Tax Fund.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Att'y-Gen. Miller has decided that the decision of the treasury department, withholding $46,000 of the direct tax fund for Indiana as an offset for overpayments in accounts heretofore audited for the state, was legitimate and proper. Indiana, therefore, will not receive any more of the direct tax refund except the difference between the amount owing the department ($46,000) and the $50,000 withheld pending a settlement of overpayments.

A Government Auction Sale.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 11.—The preparations for the auction sale of a portion of the government reservation here April 12 are completed and already would be purchasers are flocking in. Advice received here are to the effect that the excursion train southbound from the Iron Mountain, now en route here from St. Louis, is one of the largest ever pulled on the road. Local people, as well as others, are much interested in the sale, which promises to bring many new citizens and new capital to the city.
